TEETH AND DIET

A representative of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council was in Newmarket recently to make arrangements for a day of dental education in the schools and for interested adults. The representative, Dr. Thompson, did not represent the dental profession. He did not represent the medical profession either, he indicated, for it was his purpose to improve people's general health by improving their dental health, and to make less work for both professions. His story, in a way, was that an apple a day keeps both doctor and dentist away.

We Lead, Others Follow

Anglo-Saxons, he said, have 97 per cent dental decay (though we did not understand exactly what he meant), while southern Europeans have only 40 per cent decay and Australasian natives and northern Eskimos have no tooth decay. What is the reason? Southern Europeans eat a great deal of fruit (hence our remark about the apple a day), but the Eskimo do not. Dr. Thompson said that the answer is that the Eskimos eat natural foods, and that wherever natural foods, whether blubber or fruit, are a large part of the diet tooth decay is slight. He mentioned milk as an important natural mineral-containing food.

Anglo-Saxon Sweet Tooth

Anglo-Saxons, he said, eat an almost mineral-free diet, in spite of the fact that the teeth are 100 per cent mineral. Unfortunately too, he said, they finish their meals with refined carbohydrate foods, which get in between the teeth, form acids and eat into the enamel. When the pulp or nerve gets exposed bacteria develop and are carried into the blood-stream, causing arthritis or other bodily ills. It was too bad, Dr. Thompson said, that people do not have their dessert first and complete their meals with meat and vegetables. While carbohydrates between the teeth turn to acids, meats and fruits do not, he said. Dr. Thompson does not try to upset such social conventions, but he does urge people to "wash" the food from between their teeth after every meal, and to have cavities filled immediately.

Insurance Companies Interested

Incidentally, the insurance companies, those institutions which say you will die in a certain number of years and then hope you won't, pay a share of the expenses of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council which Dr. Thompson represents. These health educationists should receive an attentive hearing when they return to Newmarket shortly.

A MATTER FOR PRIDE

Mayor Boyd and the town council, Treasurer N. L. Mathews, and the citizens generally have reason to feel proud of the reception given to Newmarket's latest bond issue. Newmarket got a better price for its bonds than did the dominion of Canada. While the Newmarket bonds bore an interest rate of 3½ per cent, and the dominion bonds bore a rate of 3¼ per cent, the Newmarket bonds sold at a price which cut the rate to 3.20. In addition to that, the dominion had to pay expenses out of its sale price, whereas Newmarket's sale price was net. That is something to be proud of but is explained easily. Newmarket has a rapidly declining debt and the dominion has a rapidly increasing debt.

SCHOOL FAIRS CANCELLATION

There will be widespread and heartfelt (by disappointed children) regret over the announcement that there will be no school fairs this coming fall. The provincial administration which makes that sort of economy, and economizes at the expense of the people of this province to such an undertaking as the St. Lawrence deep waterway, and at the same time spends more than any Ontario government ever spent before, lacks balance and good judgment, in our opinion. But that is not what we purposed to say. That just bubbled over.

Save $40 Per Fair

Our thought is whether anything can be done to save the school fair. Our understanding of the present set-up is that a township school fair costs about $140, of which say $100 would be prize money and would be put up by the township council or by the interested school boards, and $40 would be for other incidental expenses and would be put up by the provincial government. It is easy to see that the $40, spread over the whole province, would run into quite an item. It would have been more constructive if the provincial government had encouraged county council or some other body to assume the formerly provincial expense, instead of just announcing that the school fairs were dropped. There were over 500 school fairs held in Ontario last year and the province will save over $20,000.

A Good-Will Undertaking

Now surely here is an opportunity for the Aurora and Newmarket boards of trade to do something really constructive. Why couldn't these two bodies undertake to raise the necessary $40 per school fair so that the school fairs of northern York could be carried on. To finance Georgina, North Gwillimbury, East Gwillimbury, Whitchurch, East King and West King school fairs would cost only $250, and no doubt the provincial department of agriculture would lend staff co-operation.

Here's Opportunity

Come on, boards of trade, or service clubs! Opportunity knocks loudly at our gates. Let us share in this splendid educational effort, so ably carried on in the past by the department of agriculture and the York county agricultural representative, and build the good-will of the countryside toward the Aurora and Newmarket shopping centres.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

One of the most difficult problems which the finance committee of the town council will have to deal with, in drawing up a budget, will be the public schools grant. The committee will know that it can pare down the amount requested, and yet probably not lose immediately any member of the splendid teaching staff. It will therefore be a temptation. It is to be remembered, however, that, while a low salary level and the withholding of much-needed increases may not result in staff losses at the moment, in the long run it means the gradual loss of the best teachers and filling the ranks with teachers not so capable as those which a higher salary level would have attracted. Good salaries are also a mark of appreciation and stimulate better work. Teaching is a highly skilled profession and we should pay well those to whom we entrust to a large extent our children's minds and characters. Money invested in the education of our children is always money well spent.

Up to Council

When the secretary of the school board, Mr. Pritchard, read out to the town council the salaries paid to the teachers, Councillor J. L. Spillette exclaimed with good reason that they were disgraceful. In effect, the town council and not the school board fix those salaries, and Mr. Spillette will have the support of all parents interested in the welfare of their children and all citizens interested in the welfare of their country if he takes the lead in insisting that better school salaries are a first claim on the 1940 town budget.

SPRING

People were talking about spring this week. The weather must have been reminiscent of Florida (for those who have been there). Hope for spring this year will be tempered by warnings that its arrival may mean the opening of heavier warfare in Europe, possibly involving Canadian boys. We will all pray not.

PROVINCIAL SUBSIDY

The Hepburn government is going to take away a part of the mill and a half subsidy which it gave to the municipalities last year. The first mill was given to the municipalities when the province took away the income tax and the half mill was added last year when the government increased the gasoline tax. Newmarket was collecting little income tax and was ahead of the game when the mill arrived from Queen's Park. We won't be able to complain if the government now takes away some of that first mill.

A HAPPY PICTURE

Citizens of Newmarket have cause for congratulation on the auditor's report which Mr. Mathews presented to the council on Monday evening. The audit by Mr. George Vale indicates that the town is in a happy financial mood. The picture presented by Mr. Mathews has no happier feature than the $4,000 surplus with which the town finished 1939, and with which the town starts 1940. Will the council use this money to reduce the 1940 tax rate or for standing needs? The report also reveals wise and conservative financing and a diminishing debt. The latter can be attributed to the foresight which led to the adoption of the serial debt plan of paying off part of the principal of bond issues annually and to the restraint of recent councils and the public in not issuing new unnecessary debentures.

MAIN ST. PARKING

The town council, we thought, passed too lightly over Chief Constable James Sloss' recommendations with regard to Main St. parking, at the town council meeting Monday evening. No doubt the council will consider the report more fully another evening when there is not so much on the program.

SPENT MOST OF LONG LIFE IN QUEENSVILLE

Mrs. Rachel A. Wright, who passed away at the home of her daughter in Toronto on Feb. 12, was the widow of the late James Wright of Queensville.

The funeral service was held on Wednesday of last week in Toronto and was conducted by Rev. Stanley H. Greenslade of Centennial United church, of which Mrs. Wright was a member. Interment was made at Queensville cemetery, with Rev. Hugh Shannon officiating.

The pallbearers were six nephews: C. R. Morrison, J. W. Morrison, Marvin Bowman, W. L. Robinson, Chester Bassford and Edward Lee, all of Toronto.

Mrs. Wright, third daughter of the late Mary and Andrew Barr, was born at Ogdensburg, N.Y., on Aug. 12, 1853, and moved to the county of York 84 years ago, where she resided the greater part of her life in Queensville and vicinity, until the death of her husband in 1918, when she took up residence in Toronto.

Mrs. Wright is survived by one daughter, Jessie M., of Toronto, one son, Ernest J., of Newmarket; two sisters, Mrs. Martha Morrison, Elmhurst, Ont., and Mrs. Thomas Wallwin, Barrie, and two brothers, Joseph A. Barr, Los Angeles, Cal., and Albert Barr, Aurora, and one granddaughter, Mrs. T. G. Bainbridge, Toronto.

The host of friends and relatives who paid their last respects and the beautiful floral tributes testified to the love and high esteem in which Mrs. Wright was held.

The Common Round

FEBRUARY

By Isabel Inglis Colville

February has always seemed to hold, within its narrow limits, more events of historical significance than the same number of days in any other month.

Then there is something mysterious about its very make-up—all the rest of the months have so many days—and stick to it—but February is a mathematician, and adds and subtracts at regular intervals. Then, it has another mysterious attribute. When it ADDS its extra day, it SUBTRACTS or abstracts the bonds of maiden modesty, and leaves the maidens free to woo.

Then, too, St. Valentine sheds his beams of love over the month, so one can hardly wonder that February stands proudly by itself—a month set apart by many things.

One hundred years ago an event took place which makes one inclined to believe in predestination—for one wondered how it could have been so perfectly arranged otherwise: it was leap year too, and what could be more fitting than for the young Queen Victoria to choose that month in which to tell her chosen consort that she loved him. She did not ask him because she was compelled to for reasons of state. She asked him because he couldn't ask her, and because she loved him, and as in the good old fairy tales, where the Prince Charming finds the real Princess—"they lived happily ever after."

February seemed to give birth to liberators. George Washington was born in February, and he led his fellow-countrymen in their struggle to shake off the shackles forged by a foolish king.

Had Victoria reigned then, instead of George III, her instinctive flair for knowing when to submit to the guidance of her ministers would have saved the American colonies to Britain.

And Abraham Lincoln has added more laurels to February liberators. Often misunderstood and lonely, but filled with an overwhelming desire to see the true spirit of brotherhood override all barriers of race, he was ready to fight for his convictions.

It was no easy task for a man of his calibre to plunge a great nation into civil war—the worst of all—where the distinction between factions is not of race or creed, but only of convictions.

But he cast the die and the American nation was freed from the stigma of slavery.

In February three great societies were founded—"Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire," "Victorian Order of Nurses," and the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

The members of the I. O. D. E. keep alive the spirit of patriotism among women; do splendid disease preventive work, and in war time serve their country in whatever capacity that country may require.

The Victorian Order of Nurses do yeoman service wherever there is need. I have seen one of their number, when the first flu ravaged our land, work day and night, with an hour snatched here and there for sleep, and food taken just when and where it would least interfere with work.

I saw the same nurse, one evening, come home for a brief rest. Someone asked her about her work and she became wildly hysterical—outraged nature was taking her revenge—but just then a message came about a badly scalded child.

In an instant—gone was the laughing and the crying—calmness and efficiency were put on like armor, and this modern woman-knight went out to do battle with her dread foe—disease.

As for animals—up to the forming of the S.P.C.A. they had no redress. There is cruelty yet—due to evil human nature on the one hand and lack of thought on the other.

There is always something rather terrifying about a person who ignores the "rights of the helpless," for one feels, and often rightly, that that cruelty is carried into other life relations.

And two of our governors—generals have died in this month—they too have cast off shackles—the bonds of the finite and have put on immortality—the Marquess of Dufferin and Baron Tweedsmuir.

Among February's sons none will be more mourned than John Buchan, whose books we have read, whose character we have admired, whose love for freedom and the best things in life remain with us, immortal, although the mortal has passed on.

And so we leave February, with her mysteries, her great sons and her great societies, and wonder what, in years to come, she will have in store.

YOUNG CHIPS AND BROWNIE HAVE A "LARKY" TIME

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"Those Starlings were certainly burbling very happily, in town this morning," Brownie, the Brown Creeper, said to Young Chips, the Chickadee. "But it's nicer here in the woods."

"Yes, it sounded rather spring-like, I must admit," replied the Chickadee. "Yet I do dislike them so much."

"Who doesn't?" agreed Brownie. "Have you seen any signs of spring yet?"

"I haven't seen or heard Blackie, the Crow, yet," answered the Chickadee, "but I'm keeping my eye peeled for him. Let's go out to the edge of the woods near the road. It's rather gloomy in here, don't you think?"

"Oh, all right," said Brownie. "But I like the quiet of the woods."

"Oh, so do I, but it's nice to move around," Young Chips replied cheerfully. "Here we are. That's better. The sun's shining nicely today. The snow seems to be disappearing a little bit. There doesn't seem to be very much on the road here. There are even patches of muddy ground."

"We are not alone!" Brownie suddenly announced solemnly.

"Where?" asked the Chickadee, looking around in the branches of the hemlock tree and craning his neck.

"Look down in the ruts in the road," the Creeper instructed him.

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed Young Chips, as he followed this advice. "Look who's here! Horned Larks! Why, there are five or six of them. Hello, fellows. When did you get back? I didn't even see you at first. You're just the same color as the mud."

"That's certainly not very complimentary," laughed one of the Larks. "We would call it 'protective coloring.'"

"Oh, I don't mean you're not terribly attractive looking, with your buff faces, and black sideburns and foreheads and black collars, and the distinctive little crested ear tufts on your heads."

"I suppose you mean our horns," said another Lark. "Well, yes, we are rather proud of them. But, of course, our natty little horns aren't our only unusual feature."

"Why, what else have you got?" the Creeper asked.

"We have a very long hind toe nail," explained the Lark. "Just look at mine!"

"Why, I have rather a long, curved hind claw myself," said the Creeper. "It helps me to cling to the tree trunk."

"Oh, yes, but it isn't as long as ours," said the Lark. "The only other birds with a really long hind toe like ours are the Longspur and the Pipit."

"You don't say," said Young Chips. "And is there anything else that makes you different from other birds?"

"Well, of course, we are among the few birds who sing habitually while flying, more than we do while on the ground," explained one of the little group. "We love to fly way up in the sky and sing as we go. Of course, we Larks are noted for our singing."

"And we nest unusually early too," added another Lark. "Sometimes we nest right in among the last patches of snow in the fields. We build on the ground, of course."

"A barbarous custom!" murmured the Chickadee. "But I knew you indulged in it. I suppose you've been wandering about all winter."

"Yes, yes," replied the most talkative of the Larks. "We're drifting northerly a little, now that the winter is wearing away. We usually turn up around here during the last part of February."

"And we're always glad to see you," said the Creeper graciously. "We regard your coming as a sign of spring."

"It's nice to know we're popular," one of the little Brown Larks said smilingly. "It's been a pleasure to meet you." As he spoke they all lifted their wings and flew quickly away.

"I wish we'd heard them sing," said Brownie.

"They'll be singing a lot shortly, as the mating season will soon be here," said Young Chips. "As that chap said, they nest frightfully early. They have some queer characteristics—those Larks."

"Everybody's queer but me and thee," said Brownie. "And even thee's a little queer sometimes."

"That was quite a Lark, wasn't it?" chirped Young Chips brightly, ignoring the gibe.

McLaughlin when the chickens stolen from Alexander Emmerson were left at McLaughlin's house. They said they had had no other place to leave them. Mrs. Clodd stated that McLaughlin gave her $3, which he said he owed to Reuben Clodd but did not say why he owed the money. Constable Ronald Watt told of his accompanying Detective Vance of Toronto to McLaughlin's house and finding there nine Plymouth Rock chickens of a quite valuable type. McLaughlin told Detective Vance that he had already eaten two of the chickens. Magistrate Woodliffe found that the crown had not proven the case against Wm. McLaughlin.

BLACKSMITH SHOP WAS BURNED DOWN BY RETALIATING ENEMY IN THE OLD DAYS

By DELPHINIUM Do you remember when nearly all the soap we used was homemade - soft or hard soap? Some of us still make a good cleansing soap from left-over fats and lye. Conditions have changed. In the good old days hardwood was the winter fuel and good hardwood, maple, beech or oak, contained potash. I was reminded of this old process when recently we had men cutting down some trees. One tree was an old basswood, with the trunk quite hollow. In memory's eye I could see a leach at our farm, a length of a hollow basswood log, standing in a slanting position on a strong board base. This hollow log was filled with the hardwood ashes. Water was poured on at intervals and a lye crock under the drip to catch the clear lye. The lye was like strong tea in color - don't taste it or it will burn your tongue. One of those large iron kettles was handy and the lye poured into this and fats of different kinds were added. A fire was built under the kettle, which was slung between two poles and when the soap was making a professional - and nearly every pioneer woman was a professional - tended the fire, stirring the mixture and knew just when the soap was quite right. A little was put to cool in a saucer to test its texture, reminding one of taffy being tested. So a supply of soft soap that would last till the next spring was made. It was just as good for washing blankets as for anything else. If it was to be white, hard soap for the hands, a different method was followed. The soap was poured into a box with cotton lining it. When cool it was cut into cakes for use. You could add many things to this soap, viz., ammonia, borax, washing soda, etc. The fats used were tallow from the cow that was killed for meat, or from the lamb or sheep, or it was pork fats, or pork rind; which melted in the lye. When you consider how much soap and soap products cost now you can see how cheaply it was made then. Not very many years ago, a yearly batch of soap was made at an Everley farm where they burned good hardwood in the kitchen fire and leached the ashes. But those who made that soap and generously gave you a big pailful of it, have gone where soap is no longer needed. In the farther back days, many of the pioneers were resourceful and made use of their timbered farms, instead of simply burning the logs to get the use of the land. There was old Philip Wade, grandfater of John Wade, who lives on the farm where his grandfather made potash for sale. I presume the process was similar to leaching the ashes and holling down to a solid lye. This potash was a source of income. Then there was a John Egan, who made commercial pitch from the pitch pine logs. He was called "John Tar," because he extracted this tar. It would suggest the name "Jack Tar," given to sailors. The charcoal used by blacksmiths and sold now in paper bags as a kindling for coal fires was made right here on these farms in the old days. My mother told me of an old man who burned charcoal in our field here. Huge piles of pine logs were covered with earth. A fire was prepared ready to start at the lower edge of the pile. When the logs were well covered, the fire was lighted by a long torch and began to burn. That pile of logs must not burn outright but smoulder away. Should smoke or fire burst through some part of the cover it must be covered with more earth, or should it all burn it would be spoiled as charcoal. So someone must watch day and night, till the logs had become charcoal, when it was uncovered and broken into

"I was Just an Infant Then ..."

"even Alexander Graham Bell could hardly have visioned my amazing future—certainly not on the evening of March 10th, 1876, when the human voice was first heard over a wire."

Four years later—April 1880—the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was formed.

It was a new domain of public service but the Company's founder, the late Charles Fleetford Sise, was confident that a painstaking, courteous service, always improving as new apparatus and new methods evolved, would in time develop into one of the major enterprises of Canada. He saw that telephone service was worth so much more than its cost to the user that the future of the business was assured.

The principle that Bell embodied in his first crude telephone has persisted to this day. The principles of Charles Fleetford Sise for the conduct of a great public service are reflected in the continuous progress of the Company he founded.

Within these sixty years the telephone has broken down the barriers of space and time and vastly promoted human understanding. In Canada the telephone is used more than in any other land.

and I'm still growing!"

The first telephone to carry the human voice. Compared to your modern streamlined telephone - as crude as a buggy beside a motor car.

"When the great war broke out he was prevented from going on active service by a gastric affection. I have been told that there was not a day of his life since then that he did not suffer actual physical pain. "He served, however, as a war correspondent. "In 1927 he was elected to the house of commons. In 1933 and again in 1934 as Mr. John Buchan he became the personal representative of the king at Holyrood Castle in Scotland. An interesting anomaly, incidentally, is that whether the king is an Anglican or a Presbyterian depends on which side of the border he is. "In 1935 he was appointed, as Mr. John Buchan, personal representative to the king as governor-general of Canada. He was the first governor-general who came to Canada as the personal representative of the king, rather than as a representative of the British government. "He was then made Baron Tweedsmuir of Elfield. "His work in Canada was that of an interpreter. He knew Canada better than many Canadians, and better than any governor-general before. "He showed his independence of thought when he stirred up discussion in declaring that if Canada was a member of the British Commonwealth she should share in its defence. "On the other side, he stirred up discussion when he pointed out that Canada's first loyalty was to Canada. "Outstanding points about the life of John Buchan, said Mr. McCulley, were, first, his humble birth, second, the power of sustained effort, the power of overcoming handicaps ("I am a typical Scot of the border breed"), third, humility and simplicity, and fourth, a fine sense of humor. "He left a heritage that will endure long after the honors that were showered upon him are forgotten," said Mr. McCulley. "He looked upon himself as an interpreter and life as a pilgrimage."

TOWN HOCKEY

"Doc" Boyd brought the Town back into the running when he took Hartford's pass in front of the net and banged it home. Both clubs tested the rival goalkeepers with hot drives, the Towners especially giving Kaus some very anxious moments.

During the final go the Town gang put on some spirited attacking, but were only successful in making their count up to two, "Doc" Boyd getting his second with Pete Neufeld supplying the pass. The Specialty again broke into the clear during the gangling attacks, but on these occasions the Town men were successful in getting back and bringing down their men before they could do any damage.

For the winners, Kaus, between the posts, earned top laurels, turning in a star performance. Barker made no mistake on his two break-aways and notched two goals. Bennitz, Hughes and J. O'Halloran were working well together with their fine passing plays. The balance of the squad were right on their toes all night and turned in outstanding games.

For the Town Boyd notched two of the Town counters and was working hard all night. Hartford played an excellent game and fired some hot drives which gave the Specialty no respite from plenty of trouble to save. Neufeld, also on the front line, was playing first grade hockey and deserved a better fate on some of his drives. May led the Town attack from the blue line but could not get into the scoring column.

Line-up: Office Specialty, goal, P. Kaus; defence, A. Barker, K. Woodcock; centre, A. Bennitz; wings, J. O'Halloran, R. Hughes; alternates, S. Evans, G. Crowder, K. O'Halloran.

Town: goal, B. Cutting; defence, A. Mathewson, D. May; centre, M. Boyd; wings, D. Hartford, P. Neufeld; alternates, R. Hamilton, K. Blair, R. Eves, V.

There has been criticism because Canada did not immediately declare war. When Britain declared war the neutrality act in the United States went into force. If Canada had declared war it would have gone into effect against Canada and needed materials could not have been sent to Canada and then to Britain. Then a united parliament went to the support of the British Empire.

"Then the Duplessis government went to the people in Quebec. The federal ministers from Quebec went into that province and did a wonderful job for the unity of Canada."

"The personnel of the navy has been doubled, he said. The production of vital ammunition has been increased four to six times. Pacific coast defences have been greatly strengthened."

Col. Mulock said that machine-guns, anti-gas respirators, modern service aircraft, navy vessels and anti-aircraft searchlights were being manufactured in Canada for the first time.

"We have heard a certain amount about shortages in certain lines," said the speaker. "I wouldn't claim a 100 per cent government, but I will say that in my opinion the present government is the best it is possible to find."

"Should I find that the government is not carrying on the war effort in what I consider the best way - I don't think I shall reserve my right to vote against them."

Col. Mulock outlined the orders for supplies for the troops which have been placed. There are shortages here and there, he said. "You can't turn a country into a war machine in a few months."

Col. Mulock said that the government for the first time in history had assumed the obligation of looking after dependents other than wives. In the last war they were looked after by the Patriotic Association, he said.

"So far as I am concerned, I am going to advocate that other dependents be given the same treatment as a wife," he declared.

Col. Mulock quoted Dr. D. M. Sutherland, minister of national defence in the Bennett government, as saying that he thought that the present government is doing everything that could be done.

"Every person is entitled to criticize," said Col. Mulock. "When criticism is stopped, liberty is disappearing. When the party system goes, liberty is going. There is only one party, and only one party allowed in Germany, only one party and only one party allowed in Russia. I am going to do everything possible to keep fascism or communism out of this country."

as sabotage insurance. "The showing is the more remarkable in that we budgeted for $2,000 for purchases at the tax sale instead of the $12,000 we actually spent," said Mr. Mathews. "We absorbed that $10,000, and we absorbed the amount by which we overspent our budget, and finished the year with a surplus."

Mr. Mathews said that all the arrears collected at the tax sale had not been shown on the town's books as current assets, but had been partly written off. "Last year we showed $35,709 in arrears as current assets, and yet without including penalties we collected $38,000 in arrears," he said with a smile. "And we still have left collectible arrears of $12,000, without counting 1939 arrears of $20,601 (against which we are allowing a reserve of $2,000)."

FIVE PLANETS SHINE IN EVENING SKY

By GOLDEN GLOW

Anyone interested in the stars should certainly not miss seeing the great astronomical spectacle of the century in our western sky these evenings. It is the close conjunction of five planets, all appearing as evening stars, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Saturn and Mercury.

Many authorities hold to the theory that when Christ was born Venus and Jupiter were in close conjunction and that they seemed to form one star which was the famous Star of Bethlehem. Venus is the brightest and Jupiter next. They are the closest together, and Saturn and Mars are above them, and Mercury below. It will be seen all week and is supposed to be at its best about Feb. 28 and Feb. 29.

Students of scripture are wondering if the conjunction of Venus and Jupiter, with Mars so near, means that the second coming of Christ to earth is being foretold. The conditions, we must admit, are similar, in this worn-out troubled world of today. We shall soon know.

MALCOLM AND GODDEN PLAY HERE TUESDAY

A rare musical treat is in store for music lovers next Tuesday, Feb. 27, at Pickering College, when the famous Canadian twirler team of Scott Malcolm and Reginald Godden will give a recital. This will be their only Canadian appearance, prior to an extended concert tour in the United States.

AVIATION SCHOOL SHOW IS TOMORROW NIGHT

A gala evening, with bingo, movies and entertainment, is being sponsored at the town hall tomorrow evening by the St. John's school of aviation. Fifty prizes will be given away.

Mosier, C. Rutledge, D. Dennis. Next Tuesday the second game between the Town and Specialty in the semi-finals comes up for decision, and the cabinet makers will carry a two-goal lead into this struggle. The Town gang will be out in full force to pull down this lead and it should certainly be one of the games not to be missed this season. Plans are now under way to have relay races between the four teams, puck-carrying contests, races, etc., open to all members of the four different mercantile teams.

If possible, it is planned to hold these races and contests before the Town-Specialty game and this should prove a great added attraction to the above game. Don't forget this big gala mercantile night.

permanent force. "The air grants in 1931 and 1932 were seven and one-half million dollars. In 1933 and 1934 these had been reduced to less than $2,000,000."

"Under the guidance of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and with the support of Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, public opinion realized more and more the necessity of increased votes for armaments. It was the foresight of Mr. King which made possible increased votes, running in 1937 and 1938 to hundreds of millions of dollars."

Then a united parliament went to the support of the British Empire."

"Then the Duplessis government went to the people in Quebec. The federal ministers from Quebec went into that province and did a wonderful job for the unity of Canada."

"The personnel of the navy has been doubled, he said. The production of vital ammunition has been increased four to six times. Pacific coast defences have been greatly strengthened."

Col. Mulock said that machine-guns, anti-gas respirators, modern service aircraft, navy vessels and anti-aircraft searchlights were being manufactured in Canada for the first time.

"We have heard a certain amount about shortages in certain lines," said the speaker. "I wouldn't claim a 100 per cent government, but I will say that in my opinion the present government is the best it is possible to find."

"Should I find that the government is not carrying on the war effort in what I consider the best way - I don't think I shall reserve my right to vote against them."

Col. Mulock outlined the orders for supplies for the troops which have been placed. There are shortages here and there, he said. "You can't turn a country into a war machine in a few months."

Col. Mulock said that the government for the first time in history had assumed the obligation of looking after dependents other than wives. In the last war they were looked after by the Patriotic Association, he said.

"So far as I am concerned, I am going to advocate that other dependents be given the same treatment as a wife," he declared.

Col. Mulock quoted Dr. D. M. Sutherland, minister of national defence in the Bennett government, as saying that he thought that the present government is doing everything that could be done.

"Every person is entitled to criticize," said Col. Mulock. "When criticism is stopped, liberty is disappearing. When the party system goes, liberty is going. There is only one party, and only one party allowed in Germany, only one party and only one party allowed in Russia. I am going to do everything possible to keep fascism or communism out of this country."

"We absorbed that $10,000, and we absorbed the amount by which we overspent our budget, and finished the year with a surplus."

Mr. Mathews said that all the arrears collected at the tax sale had not been shown on the town's books as current assets, but had been partly written off. "Last year we showed $35,709 in arrears as current assets, and yet without including penalties we collected $38,000 in arrears," he said with a smile. "And we still have left collectible arrears of $12,000, without counting 1939 arrears of $20,601 (against which we are allowing a reserve of $2,000)."

"Under the guidance of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and with the support of Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, public opinion realized more and more the necessity of increased votes for armaments. It was the foresight of Mr. King which made possible increased votes, running in 1937 and 1938 to hundreds of millions of dollars."

"There has been criticism because Canada did not immediately declare war. When Britain declared war the neutrality act in the United States went into force. If Canada had declared war it would have gone into effect against Canada and needed materials could not have been sent to Canada and then to Britain. Beloved Writer Addresses Several Aurora Gatherings

L. M. MONTGOMERY TELLS OF EARLY STRUGGLES AS YOUNG AUTHORESS

On Friday Mrs. Ewan Macdonald, famous Canadian authoress and poetess, known the world over as L. M. Montgomery, the creator of that delightful fiction character, "Anne of Green Gables," came to Aurora.

In the afternoon she addressed the students at Aurora high school and was besieged with autograph hunters. Following the meeting, the wives of the school board members and the teachers and their wives held a tea in their honor in the board-room.

Mrs. Macdonald next attended a banquet at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, held by a group known as "The Willing Workers," composed of the members of Mrs. M. Rank's and Mrs. C. C. Macdonald's classes. The president of the group, Norma Mathew, presided over the gathering. Vanetta Maanen gave the toast to the king. Gwen Smith proposed the toast to "our mothers," which was responded to by Mrs. Delmer Barker. The toast to the visitors was sponsored by Norma Mathew and responded to by Mrs. Macdonald, who spoke briefly.

Following the banquet Mrs. Macdonald spoke to a crowded gathering in St. Andrew's church. Rev. J. K. McCreary gave the address of welcome, while Mrs. J. T. Bond presided. Mrs. Macdonald, in interesting vein, told of her early life in Prince Edward Island, and of her early endeavors in the literary field, many of which had not been successful.

"What a young and aspiring author needs more than anything else is perseverance and plenty of postage stamps. Rejection slips should only spur one on," she said.

LAWN BOWLERS ELECT F. J. LIGHTBOURN AS PRESIDENT, REPORT SUCCESSFUL YEAR

On Friday evening the male section of the Aurora lawn bowling club held their annual meeting in the town hall, with the president, Reeve C. A. Malloy, presiding.

It was reported that a successful year had been held in all ways. Tournaments of the season were well attended, and the treasurer's report showed expenditures of $416.12 as against receipts of $421.76.

A. J. Annan received commendation for his work as greenskeeper, and the balance owing on the

RECEIVE CERTIFICATES

The successful members of the St. John's ambulance training class, sponsored by the Aurora Women's Institute, have this week received their official certificates from provincial headquarters.

"When I started to write, we had no few books, but those we had we knew thoroughly. Today, there are almost too many books, and they are only skimmed through."

She told of her mail bag, and her correspondence, and gave humorous and interesting examples. She said that her books were criticized by some because they were of the "sweet" type, but declared herself indifferent to this. "I believe there is a tendency now to stress the sordidness and ugliness of life too much. We pass up much that is beautiful entirely. A mountain top or a rose garden is as interesting as a pig-sty, and is certainly a lot nicer. Let us be uplifting if we can be."

L. M. Montgomery was the maiden name of Mrs. Macdonald and is not a pen name, as many persons suppose. She commenced her writings in her own name and naturally enough did not change after her marriage.

Cordene Mapes presented Mrs. Macdonald with a bouquet of spring flowers. Jean Patterson gave several violin selections, and C. C. Macdonald, Aurora baritone, a member of St. Andrew's church, and the son of L. M. Montgomery, also spoke briefly. It is hoped that Mrs. Macdonald will return to Aurora some time soon again. Her charm and naturalness permeated her whole address, which kept her audiences in constant attention.

BOYS ENJOY LONG WEEKEND

Last weekend was the long term weekend at St. Andrew's college, when most of the boys took advantage of the occasion to return to their homes.

"Pepper" Martin, star of the local Tigers, made a flying trip to the Union station, following the Barrie game, to catch the rattler for his home in Wallaceburg, Ont.

HOCKEY PLAYER IS VISITING IN AURORA

Graham "Babe" Teasdale, Aurora's lone representative in professional hockey ranks, and his family, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Teasdale for a few weeks, before "Babe" takes over his duties in New York state with a well-known American soft drink manufacturer.

Graham has been in the honied ranks of hockey for over ten years and this year was purchased by Syracuse Stars from the Kansas City Blues, where he had played the past two years. He has been instrumental in keeping Syracuse up in the international race all season.

New Haven Eagles, who are now in second place in their group standing, made Syracuse an attractive offer for the big fellow. In a move to strengthen their team, before the play-off, which Syracuse club owners could hardly refuse, despite the protests of both the Syracuse fans, and Teasdale himself, who has a warm spot in his heart for that city. Rather than move to New Haven, at great inconvenience to himself and family so late in the season, and with lucrative employment at hand, Teasdale decided, with the permission of the club owners, to voluntarily retire for this season at least. His intentions for next year are not yet known, but it is believed that if he does play hockey again it will be with the Buffalo Bisons, who will return to the international loop next season. Meanwhile, Graham is casting a watchful eye on the progress of the local Tigers.

DOWN THE CENTRE

SHELP ME!

Queen's University colors will receive a real boost next fall, for "Pepper" Martin has decided to attend the biggest little university next year, and personally we're delighted, as we know all tricolor supporters will be. Martin was something of a one-man band for St. Andrew's in prep school football, and Coach Frank Tyndall of the football squad can breathe easier, for his backfield worries next fall will be solved when Pepper hits the limestone city. Martin, who is a big favorite with the local hockey fans, will also be a welcome addition to the Presbyterian push-chasers. He can still play junior next year, but we won't be surprised to see him in inter-collegiate competition.

A three-point landing! Charlie Rowntree made a perfect one on Friday night at the start of the third period as he missed his footing on the way to the players' bench and took to Jimmy Goulding's ice pasture.

Midland finally did it. They took Barrie Colts into camp last week for their only group win, although Barrie played with Roach in the nets in place of the flashy Con-saul, C clubs can really watch out if Bobby Dodds gets his team percolating. The Midland club are to be commended for their perseverance and sportsmanship, win or lose, and it was mostly all lose. They carried out their obligations to the letter, and we hope they reap their reward from now on.

The B groups are only nine in number, and already two groups have declared winners, and three other teams, who have had byes all season, are awaiting action. Kingston vanquished R.M.C., Queen's and the R.C.A.'s, and are now meeting Belleville, who had a bye in B company all season, but played in a C group with Trenton and Picton. Oshawa and Peterboro are in a group play-off, and will likely meet the Kingston vs. Belleville winners. Lindsay, Aurora's perennial rival, won the C section of this joint group.

LODGEMEN ELECT ALBERT LONG AS ROYAL SCARLET WORSHIPFUL COMMANDER

The Royal Scarlet chapter of East Gwillimbury met in Aurora Orange hall last week for the election and installation of officers for this year. There were a large number of companions on hand and Wor. Sir Kt. J. W. Hirst of Keswick conducted proceedings.

Officers elected were: worshipful commander, Sir Kt. Albert Long, Aurora; and the following sir knights—D.C., L. C. Lee, Aurora; chaplain, A. Osleton, Keswick; scribe, George Langridge, Keswick; treasurer, Rt. Wor. Sir Kt. W. H. Taylor, Aurora; marshal, S. C.

Chapman, Aurora; 1st lecturer, E. Arnold, Keswick; 2nd lecturer, J. Diamond, Roche's Point; 1st conductor, Howard J. Morton, Aurora; 2nd conductor, M. Gibney, Holt; herald, A. Pedlar, Keswick; sentinel, Marshall Rank, Aurora; auditors, J. W. Hirst and A. Pedlar, Keswick.

Following the election a social evening was held. On Thursday, March 21, a grand rally of companions will be held in Aurora, when grand lodge officers will be present to initiate candidates and exemplify the principles of the chapter.

HOLD TWEEDSMUIR MEMORIAL SERVICE

Aurora bowed its head on Wednesday of last week at an impressive memorial service in the United church for the late governor-general, Lord Tweedsmuir. All seats were occupied by public officials, Great War veterans, the clergy, pupils of the high school and public school and the senior students of St. Andrew's College and citizens.

A massed choir sang "Abide with me," "For all the saints" and "Unto the hills," under the direction of John Willis at the organ.

Rev. G. O. Lightbourn was chairman of the service and Rev. A. R. Park read the responsive scriptures. Lieut. Oslryk lead in prayer. Kenneth Ketchum, headmaster of St. Andrew's College, read the scripture lesson.

Dr. E. J. Thompson gave the memorial address, in which he dealt briefly but comprehensively with the life and achievements of the late John Buchan. He stressed his life as having been marked with simplicity, sincerity and a great love for humanity and the empire. Rev. Kenneth McCreary gave the benediction.

WILL RETURN HOME

Citizens will be pleased to learn that William Stoneman, Wells St., well known Aurora resident, who has been confined to the Toronto General Hospital for the past six weeks, expects to be sufficiently recovered to return to his home this weekend.

DENTAL HYGIENE WILL BE DISCUSSED

Sponsored by the Dental Hygiene Council of the Ontario Dental Society, and the three local dentists, a group of citizens were entertained at dinner at Elmwood lodge last week and heard Dr. Walter Thompson of Toronto address the gathering on "Preventive Dentistry."

As a result of the meeting a committee was formed to sponsor a series of public meetings at which dental problems will be discussed, to be held on March 12. The committee is composed of Drs. C. R. Boulding, E. W. Williams, C. J. Devins; J. H. Knowles, J. G. McDonald, C. E. Lundy, Mrs. J. Klees, Mrs. Geo. Walker and A. N. Fisher.

IS STILL PUBLIC

At 93, Alfred Love, Wellington St., is believed to be the oldest public official in York county at least, if not in all Canada. Mr. Love celebrated his birthday on Saturday at his home, where he has continuously resided for over 50 years.

He is still secretary of the public school board, the high school board and the Aurora cemetery company, and after years of service still signs the cheques, but admits his daughter, Miss Lois Love, does most of the actual work.

HOLD SLEIGH-RIDE

Twenty-four persons enjoyed the sleigh-ride and social evening held by the employees of Scanlon's bakery at Beverley farm on Monday evening.

VISITOR IN AURORA STRICKEN SUDDENLY

The death occurred suddenly in Aurora on Monday at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary McChuskey, Yonge St., of J. C. Dean, well-known resident of Penetanguishene, who for many years had been on the staff of the Ontario hospital there.

Mr. Dean was in his 67th year and had been in ill health for the past few months. A month ago he came to Toronto for treatment, and for the past two weeks he had been recuperating in Aurora before returning home. His wife was the former Nellie McChuskey of Aurora. He leaves surviving him, besides his widow, two sons, James and Charles, both of Beardmore, Ont. The funeral service took place today from his late residence at Penetanguishene with interment at Aurora cemetery.

RED CROSS SOCIETY SHIPS LARGE BALE

The Aurora branch of the Red Cross forwarded to headquarters one of the biggest bales yet sent on Feb. 16. This included among other items: four scarves, four quilts (two donated by Aurora Co-operative Women's Guild), 12 hampton pads, 26 pneumonia jackets, 24 pairs of wristlets, 75 pairs of socks, six pairs of bed-sox, 16 hot water-bottle covers, two pairs of pajamas, and 12 ice bags.

The club rooms in the post office, which are open every Friday afternoon, are especially well attended, and all ladies are welcome.

PUBLIC SCHOOLERS WIN ONE OF THREE

Aurora public school hockey teams only managed to eke one win last Thursday in a triple header at the local arena.

Hartman's Corners, after losing two straight to Aurora seconds, finally won a game 4-2. St. Andrew's College midlegs proved too much for the school seniors, winning easily 3-1. Elsie Blithworth got the lone Aurora goal. In the nightcap, Aurora seconds won from Vandon 5-2. Dr. C. J. Devins, chairman of the school board, handled all games.

CYCLING CLUB HOLDS PARTY

The Aurora Cycling club held a skating party at Aurora arena on Tuesday of last week, with some 37 persons present. Special events were held and skating was to the music of the sound system of the Morion brothers. Following the skating, the party adjourned to Dawson's grill for refreshments.

GIRLS LOSE TO N.I.S.

On Tuesday afternoon of last week Newmarket high school girls' basketball team won a nice 24-7 win over the local fair basketballers. Aurora were down only two points at the half, but the purple and gold girls drew away easily in the second half. The Aurora team was composed of Verna Riddell, Margaret Riddell, Mae Fry, Anna Biersch, Flora Carlyle and Margaret Hughey.

TIGERS DEFEAT COLTS IN FLASHY ENCOUNTER

To the delight of one of the best crowds of the season, Aurora Tigers scored a brilliant 6-3 win over Barrie Colts in the local arena on Friday night. The win marked the second straight win under the Rowntree banner, and left the Tigers firmly entrenched in the second slot in the group standing.

First period play ranged from end to end, with both teams out to get the break. Scott, Curtis and Dixon of the visitors all went to the penalty box, but both teams weathered the storm. Finally at 17:40 Jimmy Lowe took a pass from "Joiner" McComb and made no mistake. The same two boys reversed forty seconds later to give the locals a two-goal lead. Still on the attack, Tigers were caught up the ice as Bowen and Chomysyn combined to drive one by Tunney, as the period ended.

Brennan was penalized early in the second period, and before he returned Barrie evened the count as Lindsay sizzled a long shot into the net, Tunney looking bad on the play. Two minutes later it was time to do something about the matter and on a four-play passing combine "Pepper" Martin coasted in on Con-saul and took the only opening for a perfect goal. Michaniuk sifted one of his famous backhanders into the net with 15 seconds to go, as he took a face-off pass out from Captain Jimmy Cummings.

Barrie quickened the pace in the final session and drew within one goal of the locals, as Chomysyn tallied following a break-away with Bowen. Pearce got this one back on a pass from McComb and Lowe as he drove one past Art Con-saul through a maze of players at 7:05. With Curtis in the penalty box, Donkin took the puck from Cummings at the blue line and put the game on ice as he beat the Barrie net-minder with ease. Pearce and Dixon went off in the dying moments for roughing, as Aurora pressed harder on the attack against an array of Colts, who fought bitterly all the way to the finish in a desperate effort to get results.

AURORA COUPLE HEARD OVER CHICAGO STATION

Radio listeners received a thrill on Thursday morning when they were tuned to N.B.C.'s feature morning non-commercial program, "The breakfast club," which is broadcast from Chicago each morning except Saturday, to hear Dr. and Mrs. G. A. C. Gunton interviewed over the air by Don McNeil, popular master of ceremonies.

The Guntons were in Chicago, where the doctor was attending the Chicago dental convention. The radio artists were struck with the name Aurora, as several of them reside in Aurora, Illinois, and were not aware of the Ontario namesake to their home city.

ADD CANADIAN BOOKS TO LIBRARY SHELVES

Among the books added to the shelves of Aurora public library this week are a group of books all Canadian in both subjects and authors. The list includes: "The Hardy Perennials," by Henry J. Moore; "The Culture of Flowers," by Henry J. Moore; "Mineral Resources of Canada," by Elwood S. Moore; "The Wild Northland," by Sir William Francis Butler; "The Great Lone Land," by Sir Wm. F. Ernest Bonsteel, Kennedy St., received word last Friday that he had passed the medical examination for the Royal Canadian air force. During the last war Mr. Bonsteel served with distinction with the imperial air force, having attained the rank of major at the close of the war. It is believed by those close to military headquarters that Mr. Bonsteel may be appointed squadron commander, in view of his experience and record.

Tax Rate Likely To Be 40 Mills Again, Says Finance Head

NOT WORRIED ABOUT LOSS OF HALF-MILL SUBSIDY

SCHOOLS ASK MORE

Following a special meeting of the finance committee of Aurora town council, Deputy-Reeve C. E. Sparks, chairman of the committee, told "The Era" this week, that there was unlikely to be any change in the tax rate for 1940, and that it would likely be set at 40 mills, the same as in 1939.

Mr. Sparks said he did not think the proposed decrease of a one-half mill in the subsidy from the provincial government would affect the general budget a great deal, as last year's extra half mill was not considered in the estimates for 1939 and was subsequently used by the corporation to take care of an unforeseen deficit in the account for improvements for technical education made at the high school.

Members of the choir at Aurora United church had a busman's holiday on Sunday evening, as most of them took seats in the congregation to listen to the junior choir of the church capably fill the choir loft on that occasion.

school boards and the public library board are increased this year, from those included in last year's estimates," he said. "The public school is requesting an increase of $1,000 and the high school is requesting an increase of $1,200 more. The additional high school grant is the same amount as we eventually had to pay last year. The library board asks for $1,200. We gave them $850 last year."

MOTION PICTURES AND CURRENT EVENTS INFLUENCE BORROWING AT AURORA LIBRARY

"Gone With the Wind" and "Mein Kampf" continue to lead in popularity among the adult reading population of Aurora, according to Miss Marjorie Andrews, Aurora librarian. "Mystery stories, especially Oppenheims, and those of Agatha Christie, are the most popular class of books at the present time," she told "The Era." "Next come light love stories, then western stories and historical novels."

"The classics do not receive a steady run now, she intimated, but there are still a large number of people who take out Dickens, Dumas, etc., at regular intervals. "The Patriot" and "Wuthering Heights" are two books that are now growing in demand.

"The influence of the motion pictures and current events is easily seen in the trend of general reading," Miss Andrews continued. "Once a book has been filmed there is a rush to read it, although the same book may have been on our shelves for some time. Wuthering Heights is an example of this in adult fiction and the Wizard of Oz in the juvenile section. The war brought increased popularity to Mein Kampf, and books on Russia, Finland and other European countries are in demand. L. M. Montgomery's books have been in particular demand as she spoke here last week." Travel books are also very popular with Aurorians.

"The new course of studies has tremendously changed the choice among the children, of reading material," she said. "I would say the type of books read by the youngsters is improving. Of course, adventure and boy scout books are still popular." Horatio Alger's and the Henty books are now practically passed among the juveniles.

"Children do not read these books much now for some reason. They were written for another generation and are not stream-lined enough," said Miss Andrews.

LOCALS DEFEATED BY MIDLAND IRISH

Determined to score their third straight win on home ice and to end the season with a win, Midland Shamrocks on Monday evening took a 5-3 victory from the locals in the Midland arena. The game had no bearing on the group standing, and the ice, chopped up from a previous game, provided a rolling puck which the speedier Tigers could not control.

McGhee looked weak on several of the goals, but so did some of his team-mates, as they underestimated their battling opponents. The game was exceptionally clean, with only two penalties being handed out by Referee Norm. Collings. The win definitely stamped Midland as a team to be reckoned with in the C series, and Coach Rowntree feels that his boys, having got over a bad game, will be fit for the play-offs.

Midland: goal, Hepworth; defence, Swales and Nesbitt; centre, Cassidy; wings, Badley and Quinn; alternates, Belton, Howard, Ryan, Crawford and Broadeur.

Aurora: goal, McGhee; defence, Brennan and Curtis; centre, Cummings; wings, Michaniuk and Donkin; alternates, Scott, Martin, Cook, Pearce, Lowe, McComb and Tunney.

Referee: Norm. Collings, Bradford.

George and John and the Township School Area

Article II

"Well, George, have you read that article on township school areas?"

"No, I haven't. I had to sit and listen to the school inspector talk about it the other night, but it just made me sleepy. I guess you must be a friend of his. You and he ought to realize that there's a war on and nobody has any time for talking about something nobody wants. What are we going to gain by changing?"

A school's a school and a teacher's a teacher. We have schools and teachers now, and we've been told for years that Ontario schools are the best.

"What more do we want?"

"Ontario's schools and teachers are good, George, but there are recognized weaknesses in our educational set-up. You believe in our pioneer educationists evidently, but are we practising the principles which they considered fundamental?"

"We certainly are and we are doing more. Every youngster gets a free education and more than that we make him take it up to a certain point. That's more than they did in the old days."

"What about equal school privileges for every child, George? That was one of the main principles laid down in early Ontario's history. Do you think we give them all the same educational advantages?"

"They can all go through public and high school at the expense of the public. Some go to normal school and it's free. Do you think we should pay their way through university?"

"That's not quite what I mean, George. Take our school, for example. We have running water in the school for washing and drinking, good lighting, and proper indoor sanitary installation. We spend $50 or more every year for books and we have tables for work and study and cupboards for storage. I know you opposed purchasing the new desks and the furnace this year, but we needed both and they will contribute to the health and comfort of the children.

The itinerant music teacher visits our school and Miss Blank teaches manual training well, partly because she has the best of equipment. She's a good teacher and well worth the $1,000 we pay her. I wouldn't have believed that in three years any person could have improved the schoolyard as she and the pupils have done. And the pupils are happily getting a sound education."

"Why make any changes, then, John? That's what I'm telling you. We have a good school now."

"But what about some of the other schools in this township, George? No. X hasn't been improved to any extent in 35 years. They have the same six little windows, the old desks, the old box stoves that roasts those near it while the other pupils are cold. They haven't bought any books for two years and the teacher leaves every year. Sometimes they get a good beginner, but they never pay more than $600, so she leaves at the end of the first year. That isn't giving equal school privileges to every child."

"Well, John, they could do as we have done. We paid for our improvements. Let them do the same."

"Perhaps they could, but you know it would be harder for them to do so, because there are few good farms in the section. Why, we pay for the transportation of our pupils to high school. Their pupils pay their own or stay at home."

"You're not suggesting that we help pay for their improvements are you?"

"No, George. If we had a township area of five schools, the board would get an annual grant of $100 per school or $500 from the department of education. That $500 would do a lot to improve all the schools without increasing our rate and we could to a greater extent give equal educational opportunities to all the pupils in the township."

The place is Wesley United church, the time 8 o'clock sharp. Owing to the number of contestants it is very necessary to begin on time. Come out and encourage.

Send Thy light into our darkness and guide the nations as one family into the ways of peace.

Grant that all men everywhere recognize their need of God and turn to Thee.

Take away all prejudice and hatred and fear. Strengthen in us, day by day, the will to understand one another, and to those who by their counsels lead the peoples of the earth grant a right judgment, that so through them, and us, Thy will be done. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The shorter prayer to be used at 12 o'clock noon (when possible) is as follows:

Give peace for all time, O Lord, and fill my heart and the hearts of all men everywhere with the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

The suggestion was that wherever women's organizations meet together the peace prayer should be used, as well as privately in our own homes. She proposed that such meetings should be stopped at certain times and the prayer offered ... perhaps at ten or eleven in the morning, at three or four in the afternoon, and at nine in the evening. This would ensure that everyone at the meeting, late-comers and those who left early, would be able to share in the prayer. She also suggested the prayer for 12 o'clock noon, so that in this way the great power of intercession would rise throughout all Canada daily, as people carry on their normal activities.

I have again copied out the prayer in order that our readers, who have not already obtained the card of the League of Prayer and Service from the rector of their church, may cut it out and paste it on a piece of cardboard and so have a copy always at hand.

Will every woman who reads these words endeavor to attend the service tomorrow and bring a friend with her that we may be enabled to do our part towards ending the war by our united prayer.

I wrote an article last autumn telling of a movement begun by the vicar of St. Michael's, Chester Square, in London, last spring, even before war was declared, to form a league of prayer and service, and members, both men and women, of organizations throughout the empire were asked to join.

In Toronto on Thursday, Nov. 23, a meeting was called by the mother superior of the Sisters of St. John the Divine, representing all the Protestant churches of Canada, the Roman Catholic church, the Jewish church, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross Society, I.O.O.F., women's auxiliaries, Women's Institutes, Girl Guides and many organizations in order to promote the League of Prayer and Service further, now that our empire is at war.

The mother superior presided, and stated the reasons for the calling of the meeting. She explained she had been asked to organize this "call to prayer," and she suggested they use existing organizations instead of forming a new one.

The suggestion was that they use this prayer for peace with a few alterations, from the card provided by the League of Prayer and Service, which is now as follows:

O God, the Father of us all, who has made of one blood all nations of men, mercifully receive the prayers that we offer for our anxious and troubled world; for those who serve, and

HEALTH HINTS

By J. R. Harrison, D. C.

It's quite recently, religious instruction was often not positive, but merely pointed out sins and their accompanying penalty, with little constructive help to the sinner to enable him to overcome his faults. We were told that it was a sin to get angry, worry or indulge in hate, but what people really needed was a method whereby these emotional errors could be corrected. It is here that modern practical psychology realizes the wisdom in the advice, "Resist not evil."

In other words, if we hate somebody we cannot eliminate this feeling by fighting it, because the more we dwell on it the more it grows. The solution of the problem lies in an application of the knowledge that an emotion is always a reaction to a thought, and by taking the person disliked and trying to associate him with something good he has done, or some favorable characteristic, automatically a good feeling towards him is generated. We forget the bad thoughts by getting good thoughts to displace the bad and this procures good feeling.

This simple principle may seem too simple to solve complicated emotional problems, but if we are honest, we must admit that people we dislike are always people we have been in the habit of associating only with negative characteristics. Strangely enough, this practice of deliberately generating good feelings towards certain people generally procures telepathically an emotional response by the other party and thus a mutually co-operative attitude between two people is obtained. Just try this and see if it works.

SLAPS 'N' SCRAPS

WHERE

By RALPH M.
ADAMS

Hail to King McInnis, champion pie-eater of the junior Redmen.

The blond ruler of the pastry
domain proved his right to the crown at the get-together at Coach Rowntree's domicile after the win last Thursday night.

With a score of eight pieces
of pumpkin pie with whipped cream to his credit, McInnis left his team-mates far in the rear of the race for the kingship.

Every man-jack of the gang
who attended the party certainly did credit to the victuals and yelled themselves hoarse in the
sing-song—but a swell evening (and morning).

One of the happiest kids on the squad after the game was Stan Gibbons, who netted the winning goal, principally because he felt responsible for the loss of the lead in Beaverton the first game of the series.

The Beaverton gang went down fighting, as they always do.
For sheer grit and courage this team doesn't have to take a back seat to any in the group.

As far as yours truly is concerned, this Beaverton clan is the cleanest bunch the Reds
have played this year, and like a real bunch of sports, they were the first to stick out their hands
to their conquerors.

Apps, Snodden and the two Dane boys were the best forwards on the ice for the northerners, with McCrae turning in a smart game on the blue-
line.

Snodden on the second front line played nearly the 60 minutes and was just dragging at the end. In fact, the boy was played nearly into the ice.

Koch in the nets for the Beaverton team stopped plenty of rubber, as the Reds had a good margin in the shooting, and he stopped them with his sprawling saves when the defence was beaten often.

Combination was the key-note
of the Red victory, with two of the goals clicking in big league
fashion, and with a couple of exceptions all the boys displayed
a willingness to pass the rubber.

The Redmen again pulled the old trick of getting an early lead
and then tossing it away before the final gong sounded. With the two goals they were up in the first canto it looked like an easy win.

All I said was it LOOKED like an easy victory.

And now, my friends — in this corner "Markham Aces," and in this corner "Newmarket Redmen."

After the shellacking the Aces handed the Sutton Greenshirts in their play-off, the locals had better watch out for the barrage
of goals that are liable to come
if they aren't careful.

Incidentally, we notice that Bangay and Laurie of the Markham squad both play mercantile hockey with Post-office in the Toronto city league.

Should the Reds be able to put the skids under the first line of the Markham attack (Northcote, Bangay, Baker), they will have a fair chance of ousting
them from the top rung.

No matter which way the series leans, it should be one
that will give the fans something
to talk about, and the team that cops the group should go a long way in the "C" series of the O. H. A.

Don't forget to come out and
give the boys a boost tonight;
and, incidentally, they will appreciate a good crowd at Markham, because any team
visiting there needs all the support they can get.

Tuesday night's town league
semi-final, which the O. S. M. copped by two goals, was a hummer, with the Town having
the best of the territorial play
but the Specialty boys made their break-aways count.

At least half of the Green-
shirts' counters were the result of break-aways, while the Town
tossed at least three chances to score away by erratic shooting
when in close.

Next week the two clubs meet again with the O. S. M. holding a two-goal margin. This encounter should be good and the winners will be worthy of meeting the powerful Davis Leather squad in the finals.

Along the grapevine . . . The other nite yours truly attended
a hockey game and was asked to sit in the penalty box . . . A certain winger on one of the teams is apparently a problem,
as every time he went on the ice,
came off the ice, he had something to yell about . . . To me it looks like a chronic case.
If he didn't find fault with his team-mates, it was the referee, who apparently didn't see
enough to satisfy his sense of fair play, and if his mates and
the referee escaped, his coach
got it in the neck for something he didn't do . . . Personally, I thought all those he found fault
with were doing good jobs . . .
Of course, he couldn't have been
to blame himself on a single count . . . Maybe if this boy sat on the bench
for a full game and the coach and players turned deaf ears to his hollering he would find his place . . . Too bad some fellows, good guys in every other way, can't see when they are out of place . . . Hughie Moir was the big gun for the Dukes in the Oshawa tussle, getting two goals, but it wasn't enough . . . Hughie still thinks he can take the Motor City
boys and this is once your scribe
is cheering for the Toronto team
to come through . . . Herbie Cain, the local pride with the powerful Bruins, is right in the scoring race in the big league
. . . Herbie is near the top in actual goals scored but his assists
aren't what they should be . . .
Right now I'll bet Conny Smythe
would like to have the Newmarket boy riding herd on one of his depleted forward trios . . .
However, it may still be that the Leaf master-mind wouldn't give four Stanowskis for Herbie, as a certain contemporary mentioned
the nite Cain licked the crippled (ha, ha) Leafs all by himself, one nite not so long ago . . . Don't forget the Markham Aces and Newmarket Redmen struggle to-nite . . . And so we write "30"
for this week.

Mr. Alex. Marritt of Langstaff
spent a few days this week visiting relatives here.

Everyone is sorry to hear of
Mr. and Mrs. Bert Scott and family leaving this community. They will be greatly missed.

There was a good attendance
at church and Sunday-school last Sunday. Some who had been sick were back again. The members are always glad to welcome any who do not attend any Sunday-school. There are classes for all ages. The gospel story of the grace of God is told each Sunday. Hearty singing and a warm welcome await any who care to come.

Next Sunday it is expected

NORTH GWILLIMBURY

NORTH GWILLIMBURY
BUYS GRADER AT $800

A meeting of North Gwillimbury
township council was held at Bel-haven on Monday. All members were present.

The council's most serious consideration was given to the social services, such as relief, charity, and hospitalization, which provided some difficult spots. While it was very evident that the council
wished to be fair with deserving cases, and desired to prevent all possible hardship for the unfortunate, at the same time, with legislative purse-strings tightening, it was felt that in the interests of the township treasury, efforts must be made to keep the cost of these services from getting out of hand.

Keen competition for the township's road insurance business gave
the council another difficult spell.
It was finally decided to renew the policy with Perry Winch.

Mr. Turnbull of the J. D. Adams
Co. waited on the council and secured an order for a reconditioned road-grader. This machine had been inspected by the reeve and deputy-reeve, who had given the council a favorable report on it.

The purchase price was $800, and
the machine was bought subject to 30 days trial and the approval of the department of highways.

The council was favorable to lowering the assessment of the parsonage at Belhaven to bring it in line with assessment on similar church properties in the township.

Frank Marritt was granted a refund of dog tax, having lost the dog by accident in April, 1939.

It was decided to include Angus King, road superintendent, among those authorized as delegates to the road conventions.

A deputation from the Sutton,
Georgina and North Gwillimbury
Fishermen's and Citizens' Associations, headed by Mr. Smalley, addressed the council, asking their support in the interests of the winter fishing industry.

The reeve and deputy-reeve
agreed to attend the public meeting in Sutton and the council
assured them of all possible support.

Councillor Babb introduced the matter of council procedure and moved for the preparation of a by-law outlining official procedure to govern all sessions of the council.
The rest of the council did not favor his arguments and the matter
was dropped.

Estimates of revenues and expenditures for 1940 were considered with a view to striking the general tax rates in the near future. The recently announced
half-mill reduction in the provincial subsidy to municipalities, and
an increase in the county levy
were two items which did not help
this picture. Secondary education was found to be the cause of the
an increase in the county levy.

The budgets for the roads and social services are the principal
problems for the council to deal
with before setting tax rates.

W. Davidson and C. Vaughan made very efficient auctioneers.

The Young People's Union of the Keswick United church were not

SMALL TOWNS, UNITE

By J. R. HARRISON, D.C.
Aurora, Ontario

A certain type of sophisticated writer delights to poke fun at small towns and the provincialism of "small town talk" is proverbial. In reality the small town is the backbone not only
of our civilization but of all previous civilizations and the student of history knows that a migration from the country to over enlarging cities has generally preceded social collapse. This being true it behooves every socially-minded individual to heed the warning since this historic movement is once again in full swing. Some will exclaim,
"What you say is true, but unfortunately nothing can be done about it. It is inevitable and we can only fold our hands and look on." This is by no means so.

On the contrary it is the huge city which is uneconomic
for many reasons. In large cities transportation difficulties are enormous and must increase;
many industrial workers live so far from their jobs that they lose as much as an hour both going and coming to work. Taxes are much higher in the city and the management of labor much more difficult. These are only a few of the peculiar difficulties
confronting the large city and enlightened employers of labor
are beginning to realize the truth and will do so still more if the small towns will only put on a united sales campaign to drive

it home.
Henry Ford is perhaps the world's finest business and
executive leader at the present time and he is fully convinced
of the favorable economic position of the small town. Increasingly he is manufacturing different parts of his cars in small towns and then bringing them to a central assembly plant.
I cannot presume on the indulgence of the local papers, who have so generously given me
space, by going into a detailed argument but enough has been said to show I have a strong case.

Those who agree with me may say now, "What are you proposing to do about this situation and how are you not only going to stop the present deterioration of the small towns but progressively strengthen their position?" It is only possible through a province-wide and maybe dominion-wide organization which could conceivably be based on local boards of trade. Take, for example, the antiquated law that compels small towns to advertise
tax sales in the Ontario Gazette
which 99 per cent of the people have never seen and perhaps never even heard about. There have been various isolated futile
attempts to correct this anachronism with no success, though public opinion, where it is informed, is definitely favorable
to a change. Suppose, however,
an organization which is based on local units in every town in Ontario went to the government
asking that this be corrected
with the tacit understanding that if this was not done they would go back to each town and print
the government's answer in every local paper as an example
of its lack of business efficiency
and would also bring the matter up at the local meetings. I guarantee that this fossilized
piece of legislation would soon
be a thing of the past.

Such an organization with a business-like executive committee could procure for the small towns of this province justice
and equal consideration with the large cities in a surprisingly short period of time. Do not say that we should wait till the war
is over before starting on this job. I ask, "Why wait?" A readjustment between city, town
and farming community would be the best basis for solving all
our social and economic problems and would so strengthen
this dominion that it would be better able to cope with the situation when hundreds of thousands of men and women
will be released from war work.

For myself I live in a small town because I like the small town. I believe in it. I believe it is the best place to raise my children and I believe the cultural possibilities are just as good as in the city if not better. Let us small town folk get out of the rut, cease to disparage ourselves
and catch the vision of what we could accomplish through united action. Over-centralization will bring the totalitarian state with dictatorship and these dictators
will either take away our right
to vote as of no importance and not worth the cost of an election
or, if we have the right to vote,
nearly half the people will not take the trouble to use it. On the other hand greater decentralization will strengthen our democratic form of government and put back more power in the hands of the people.

Be true to the vision which
comes to thy heart,
Be true to its radiant gleam,
For the things of tomorrow are only a part.

Of what is today but a dream.
It was following visions which carried the race
From out of the jungle and
den,

And the onward struggle would
slacken its pace
If visions should cease
Amongst men.

MOUNT ALBERT RECEIVE TELEGRAMS FROM TWO PREMIERS

A very happy event was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Burnham on Monday, it being the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

At 12 o'clock, dinner was served to the family and a few life-long friends, after which all retired to the living-room, where very appropriate addresses were given by Rev. R. V. Wilson and J. E. Arnold, and a purse containing a dollar for each year of wedded life was presented by the family, to which Mr. and Mrs. Burnham very ably replied. In the afternoon and evening, Mr. and Mrs. Burnham were "at home" to their many friends, who called to extend congratulations and best wishes. A buffet luncheon was served, at which Mrs.

F. Pearson, Mrs. J. E. Arnold, Mrs. John Crowder and Mrs. Byron Stiver poured tea.

They are both actively engaged in the work of the United Church, Mr. Burnham having been an elder since union.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham were both natives of Scott township, having farmed at Zephyr for a period of 28 years, prior to moving to Mount Albert where Mr. Burnham has been engaged in the livestock business.

A family of four children were born to bless this union, three of whom survive: Mrs. Aylmer Crowe, and Mrs. A. S. Arnold of Toronto, also two grandchildren, Miss Margaret Reesor and Clark-son Arnold.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Pickering, Zephyr, who were present at the wedding 50 years ago.

Other guests from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lunau, Mrs. E. Brown, Doug. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. Perkins, all of Richmond Hill; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leake of Toronto. Mrs. Lunau is a sister of Mr. Burnham.

During the afternoon congratulatory telegrams were received from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, also Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bonner and Mrs. E. Danby, Brantford, a sister.

MOUNT ALBERT MR. AND MRS. C. BLYTH ARE 50 YEARS WED

Mrs. H. D. Ramsden, Mrs. Elliot and Mrs. H. Noller and their brother, Mr. Richard Long, of British Columbia, were calling on friends in town on Sunday afternoon.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Blyth, who last Sunday passed their 50th wedding day. Mr. and Mrs. Blyth were married in Toronto and spent most of their lives there, where Mr. Blyth was a valued employee of a large company. On retiring from business, Mr. and Mrs. Blyth came to Mount Albert to make their home.

Their only son, Ross, was a member of the R.A.F. in the last war and like so many more men has rejoined. Mrs. Blyth was formerly Miss Sarah Allison, sister of Mr. Thos. Allison, of Holt.

One group of the W. A. of the United Church held a Valentine social at the parlance on Friday evening when they served hot meal pie, vegetables and plum pudding. This was rather a new idea and surely went over big. The proceeds amounted to over $18.

Those who stayed on after tea had a regular old-fashioned sing-song and everyone entered into the fun of having a good time.

Ben Harmon is home from the west for a short visit with his father, Mr. John Harmon, who is somewhat improved in health. Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Harmon of Parry Sound were also in town for the weekend.

Mr. Jos. Hogg, who was hurt a couple of weeks ago, is still confined to his bed.

Mr. Roy Stewart's class of the United Sunday-school held a box social in the basement on Wednesday evening of last week.

The Red Cross unit packed another box this week, which contained: six pullovers, two helmets, 15 pairs socks, 12 pneumonia jackets, seven hot water bottle covers, five handkerchiefs, 20 wash cloths, 10 sheets, two binders and 21 scarves.

Of the above, the Cheerio Class sent in five pairs socks and 10 scarves. There was an omission in the printing of the last list, namely five pairs of wristlets. The Red Cross Society hopes to pack another box on March 4.

Mrs. Rear, who is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. I. Morton, has been confined to bed for some little time.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burnham, who on Monday celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The mild weather has rather played havoc with the outdoor skating but none complain, as there has been almost steady skating since Christmas, and all this correspondent can say is, the children and grown-ups have had one grand time, and all free, thanks to the village.

Last year a collection was taken up (thanks to Mr. Tilley) to purchase a motor for the well at the park and so this year flooding was done very easily at the rink and the park has plenty of water.

The Red Cross sews on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the board room. All are welcome.

QUEENSVILLE ASKED FOR TALES OF SCHOOL DAYS

The community party in aid of the local Red Cross branch held in the schoolhouse last Friday night was a success. A large number attended and had a very enjoyable time. Chinese checkers, treasure trail contest, games, sing-song, and delicious eats rounded out the evening's entertainment. Gifts for the evening were donated by the following: A & P stores, Lyons' butchers, Rowe's store, Burkholder's, Art's garage, Williamson's Dairy and Mrs. F. Milne, and were won by Mrs. J. B. Aylward, Mrs. Russell Strasser, Fred Weddell, Byron Aylward, Rev. H. Shannon, Mrs. Geo. Pearson, Fred Dew and Douglas Smith.

The monthly meeting of the Queensville branch of the Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Kavanagh on Wednesday, Feb. 28, at 2:30 p.m. The motto is, "Things that never happen worry us most." Roll call will be answered by telling "some amusing incident that happened in your school days." The program committee is Mrs. Wilbur Dew, Miss Hazel Doane and Mrs. W. Richmond, and the lunch committee is Mrs. Ross Grieg, Mrs. F. Milne and Mrs. Percy Boag.

Institute Euchre The monthly institute euchre will be held in the schoolhouse on Friday, March 1. Good prizes will be offered. Play starts at 8:30 sharp.

BORN IN UNIONVILLE, HAS PARTY ON 90TH BIRTHDAY

Celebrating her 90th birthday on Feb. 10, Mrs. Sophronia Cooper, 13226 Hubbell Ave., Detroit, Mich., was given a surprise birthday party when more than 50 relatives, neighbors and friends dropped in to help her celebrate the occasion on Saturday night. The party was planned by Mrs. Cooper's son, Amos.

Mrs. Cooper was born in Unionville, and moved to Alpena in 1880 after her marriage to William Cooper, an Altona, Ont., farmer.

Mr. Cooper died many years ago.

There are three children living, Edith, Amos and Maurice, and four grandchildren, all of whom were present at the party.

Mount Pleasant

The weather was colder today after the Sunday and Monday mild spell. Bad colds seem to be making their visit in many homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mainprize visited at Mr. Ewart Mainprize's on Sunday.

Mrs. Nelson Shanks of Queensville has been with her brother, Mr. Jack Bosworth, for the last few weeks, nursing the sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston (nee Miss Ruby Hamilton of Ravenshoe), visited at Mr. Bernard Davidson's on Monday.

Men are busy hauling home their wood and some have got that completed and are now buzz-sawing it. All this makes one think that spring is almost peeking around the corner.

Mr. John Hopkins, the reeve, is kept busy these days with his numerous council meetings.

Mr. Robt. Davidson attended the Liberal meeting in Newmarket last Saturday.

Mrs. John Hopkins visited in Keswick last Sunday.

Ross Stiles made a change in cars last week.

W.I. RECEIVES LETTERS OF THANKS FROM SOLDIERS

The February meeting of the Newmarket Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Bailey on Thursday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Max. Smith presided.

The meeting opened with singing the Institute Ode, followed with prayer.

Reports from the standing committees were then received, also a report from the war work convener.

Mrs. Adams read two letters of appreciation from the local soldiers overseas to whom clothing from the institute was sent. The roll call was answered with "A health hint."

Dr. J. G. Cock, the guest speaker, gave an interesting and instructive address on "Health." Three essential things to good health were good food, pure air and plenty of rest, Dr. Cock said.

Miss Jean Hunter sang a lovely solo, Mrs. A. Bailey playing the accompaniment. Suggestions for the new programs were presented on slips of paper.

The meeting closed with singing the national anthem. Dainty refreshments were served at the close and a social hour enjoyed.

IS TRANSFERRED

George Johns, member of the staff of the local branch of the Imperial Bank, has been transferred to Niagara-on-the-Lake, and commenced his duties there on Monday.

Wm. Buckley of Sutton is the new member of the staff here.

Era printing costs little.

Upper Canada College are winners of the "prep" school group, and while they have a nice team can hardly be rated with the Runnymede and Northern squads of recent years. Joe Primeau is coaching the blue and white. Niagara Falls and London are two teams who have been idle all season but are now ready for competition. The big roar boys are reputedly strong, being champions of the B-hive last year. The Londoners are not so hot according to all reports, including one from Bill West.

The Big Six group, which included Brantford Lions, Woodstock, Stratford Mites, Hamilton Photos, Kitchener and Waterloo Siskies are now engaged in their play-offs. Brantford Lions, who are picked, or perhaps packed, for the B title, seem sure winners, and they will likely go up against London.

The local scene has Barrie and Owen Sound in one bracket and Kingsway vs. Aurora in the other. Play-offs start next week. These two sections are among the nine groupings and are listed as two distinct groups. Owen Sound should take Barrie, and we believe the Tigers can take Kingsway now that they are back in their stride. With several teams lying idle, awaiting group winners, it is just possible the ultimate winners of the sections may not meet, although we expect them to do so.

Lull in Her Life
An American film actress was applying for a passport. "Unmarried?" she was asked. "Occasionally," she answered.

TO THE ELECTORS OF NORTH YORK

FELLOW-CANADIANS:—

It has been an honor and privilege to serve as your Member of Parliament since 1934, and in full appreciation of the responsibility of your confidence, I have tried faithfully and conscientiously to remain true to that trust by doing my best to serve your interests.

I am a candidate for re-election and I never have been more conscious of the tremendous responsibility resting on an elected representative of the people than at this present critical time in our Empire's history.

I know that the concern uppermost in the thoughts of the people of the riding of North York, in common with the people in all parts of Canada, is that this country's war effort shall be the most effective possible.

I am satisfied that the first concern of the government is that our fighting forces shall be well equipped and well cared for, and that there shall be adequate provision for their dependents. At my nomination in Newmarket Saturday, Feb. 17th, I stated that if elected I would urge that as far as allowances are concerned, dependent mothers should be placed on the same basis as wives.

I am satisfied that the services of the best available men for war duties have been enlisted, and will continue to be enlisted as the occasions arise, without any thought of political preference. I am satisfied that the Canadian people have been protected from profiteering in war contracts and unwarranted price increases, and that our co-operation on the economic front has been efficiently organized and will be the maximum our resources can provide.

If I did not believe this to be true, I would not be a candidate in this election, because I place my duty as a citizen of Canada ahead of my allegiance to any political party. I know it to be true and I am proud to ask for your vote in the coming election. It is my honest and sincere conviction that it is in the best interests of Canada and the Empire that Canada's war effort should not be hindered and delayed by a change in administration at this time. It takes considerable time for new cabinet ministers to become familiar with departments of government, and experience at a time such as this is of the utmost importance.

In a task so gigantic as the organizing and equipping this country on a war basis I do not claim there were no mistakes. I do not claim that this government has been 100 per cent perfect in every detail, but what I do claim and sincerely believe is that the present government is the best government it is possible to get in the Dominion of Canada to carry on our war effort.

In accepting my nomination at a public meeting in Newmarket Saturday, Feb. 17, I made this statement: "I do not believe that I will, because I do not think it will happen, but if I should find that the government is not carrying on the war effort in what I consider the best interests of Canada and the British Empire I as a Canadian citizen reserve the right to vote against them."

This was my pledge to the nominating convention and it is my pledge as a Canadian citizen to the people of North York.
